

Open Peer Review on Qeios

Fiscal nausea

Narcis Eduard Mitu¹

¹ University of Craiova

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Fiscal nausea (or fiscal repulsion) is the phenomenon that occurs when very frequent and inconsistent fiscal policy measures are adopted that are most often introduced out of a desire to quickly attract financial resources to the government budget, without regard to the concept of fiscal equity and the contributory power of the taxpayer. This has the direct effect of sharply decreasing voluntary compliance actions due to the feeling of unfairness and the phenomenon of tax fog.