This article aims to assess the options used for online education in Kurdistan. The author has undertaken the analysis of existing literature. However, a lot of improvement is required. Author should provide more clarity on the research methodology. The discussion does not provide clarity on the findings of the research. Author needs to point out the specific findings of the study. A more organised approach would provide clarity on significance, rationale, research methodology and findings of the study. The topic is very good particularly investigating COVID-19 initiatives in information dissemination and providing online education.
