First of all, thanks to the author(s) for this nice article. I have some suggestions to make it more reader friendly and understandable, however. The research design needs to be clearly stated with justifications. Data collection procedure has four phases so it would be better to show them in a diagram stating each step. The consistency among the participants should be stated by giving more detail about participants. The results are presented in detail, which is nice. There are consistent references to literature in discussion part, which is nice as well.
