Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

1-The literature review has not been completed. There are some new references in relation to this work. These references should be given in the paper.

2-The methods, data, and analysis (including statistical analysis) are not adequate to test the hypothesis and support the conclusions, and are not described in sufficient detail to be reproduced.

3- The conclusion paragraph should highlight all the aspects found in the study.

As far as the form is concerned, the work is difficult to read and is written in a manner that does not conform to a scientific article.

In consideration of the aforementioned comments, this manuscript must be rejected.
