The language employed in the article is commendable, well-crafted, and easily comprehensible. Nevertheless, a few areas could benefit from improvement. Firstly, the references listed in the reference section do not seem to be cited within the text. Secondly, the article would benefit from a more solid theoretical foundation. Thirdly, a significant portion of the content lacks proper referencing, creating an impression of unsupported claims. Additionally, there is some redundancy and tautology present, with certain points being repeated excessively. Most notably, the article lacks a clearly defined methodology, leaving readers without a guide. Addressing these aspects would enhance the overall quality of the article.
