Dear author, I have reviewed your article and these are points from me:

1. Abstract should comprise background, aim/objective, method, brief result and conclusion.
2. Keywords should follow alphabetical order or according to MeSH system.
3. The introduction of this article could benefit from additional references and context. For instance, incorporating information about the history of sex education could provide a broader perspective. Additionally, discussing societal issues related to sex education, such as misconceptions or controversies, could highlight the relevance and urgency of the topic. It's also important to address the low awareness of sex education among teenagers, as this is a key issue that the article seeks to address. By expanding the introduction in this way, the article could provide a more comprehensive and engaging overview of the subject.
4. References should be put in order in the introduction or discussion.
5. In the discussion section, it would be beneficial to compare and contrast the findings of this study with those of other relevant studies. This comparative analysis could provide a more comprehensive understanding of the topic and add depth to the discussion. By doing so, readers can see how this study fits into the larger body of research on the subject, and it could also highlight unique contributions or discrepancies that warrant further exploration.
6. In the conclusion, it is recommended to make it brief.
7. References should follow recommended citation style such as Vancouver or Harvard. Adjust it according to the journal's guidelines.

These are the points from me. I recognize the urgency and importance of the issues addressed in this study. However, I believe that with some revisions, the paper could be significantly improved and its impact could be enhanced.

Best regards.
