Thank you for your efforts in developing knowledge in the area of project management techniques.

Here are a few notes that need to be considered before final approval.

1-The general English writing format is good, however, there are a few grammatical mistakes in the writing that need to be corrected. It is recommended that the author use a free "Grammarly" software account for better assistance in writing. It helps him/her to prevent even small mistakes.

1'- A few mistakes that were found during reviewing the article are mentioned below. For each mistake, the wrong writing format has been corrected after an arrow. The mistakes are corrected while reading the article. Just please be aware that There are more mistakes in the article and it is not possible to mention all of them here. They are small grammatical and they can easily be fixed.

A- "Very little of this paper"—> " a small portion of this paper".

B- ", but increasingly organizations are managing their projects with more structure." —> "However, the number of organizations that are managing their projects with a more rigid structure, is exponentially increasing."

C-"seldom mentioned"—> "rarely mentioned".

using "Grammarly" for free.

and so on...

2- In Part 3, when defining the business project and comparing it with a construction project, it would be better to provide 1 or 2 brief examples to clarify the contrasts.

The general concept seems correct to me and interesting. I would only recommend correcting the mentioned mistakes.

Thank you
