

Review of: "Expectation of Life at Birth by Sex and Area of Residence in India and Bigger States/UT's (2013-2017): A Review"

Rajeev Jayalakshmi<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Central University of Kerala

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The paper is very preliminary in nature. Life expectancy is an indicator that changes slowly taking many years. It would have been better if longer time period was taken. Further the categorization of states as big or small is not clear. is it based on geographical size or population size. Further the table could have been modified by ranking the states from higher life expectancy to lower expectancy. A critical approach of the data is missing. Not a review article per design.