The topic of the article is an interesting one, and the research is well done. For a contribution in order to substantiate the article and increase the visibility of the research results, I would propose to the authors a few aspects:

- In the introductory section, a reference to the methodology used would be important, and in the last part of the section I recommend a brief presentation of the structure of the article (a mention of the sections that make up the article).
- The authors should bring arguments that argue why for this study the Harare region is representative in order to obtain conclusions at the national level for Zimbabwe. Are these research results also applicable internationally?
- The gap that the study aims to cover is mentioned in the article, and the references to the results of other studies carried out in the field are able to highlight the contribution brought by the results of this research.

I hope that these suggestions will find their usefulness for authors.
