

Review of: "Human Rights Aspects in Infrastructure Projects in the President Regulation Number 120 Year 2022"

Michael Jr. Tiu¹

¹ University of the Philippines

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The work is promising, but is lacking in detail. It starts off with a description of the law and points out the possible violation of the right to welfare. Beyond the description of the 21 areas, there is not much here that analyses the potential violation, how it could occur, and how it might be mitigated. The possible response was also lacking in explanation. There is a need to engage with literature, critically assess the law, and provide analysis that supports the conclusion. This should be rewritten to provide the methodology and analysis.