

Review of: "Exploring Video Consultations within Sexual Health Services."

Anderson Rocha-Buelvas

Potential competing interests: The author(s) declared that no potential competing interests exist.

I consider that it is a very interesting manuscript, very well elaborated and with a pertinent subject of study.

This is because video consultation is an emerging clinical modality in general practice.

It is also a study that in times of COVID-19 aims to produce scientific evidence on how patients and doctors experience video consultation, which is a recommendation made by several authors of scientific articles interested in this topic.

I have no observations, I consider it to be rigorous and original.