I've reviewed your article, and I'll help you refine and expand upon them to enhance the quality of the article:

Abstract Methodology and Scope:

The abstract is the first point of contact for readers. To provide a comprehensive overview, it's crucial to include a brief description of the methodology employed in the study. Clearly state the number of articles analyzed and the criteria for their selection. This will help the readers understand the foundation of your research and its scope.

Inclusion of Relevant Theoretical Framework:

Incorporating a theoretical framework that explains the potential connection between smartphone addiction and violent behavior will give the study a solid foundation. This theoretical lens can guide your research and help readers comprehend the mechanisms underlying this link. This addition will enhance the article's theoretical depth.

Focus on Specific Social Media and Type of Violence:

While acknowledging the potential influence of various social media platforms, it's advisable to concentrate on one platform that exhibits a significant connection between smartphone addiction and violent behaviors. This focused approach will allow for a more nuanced analysis and enable you to delve deeper into the underlying dynamics. Similarly, choosing a specific type of violence associated with smartphone addiction will provide clarity and coherence to your findings.

Integration of Past Studies and Literature Review:

Building upon prior research is essential to establish the significance of your study. Incorporate a comprehensive literature review that discusses relevant past studies, their findings, and any gaps in the existing knowledge. This contextualization will highlight your study's contribution to the field and help readers understand its broader implications.

Detailed Methodology for News Selection:

Elaborate on the process used to select major news articles for your analysis. Clearly define the criteria used to identify relevant news stories. Explain how you ensure the articles chosen are representative of the phenomenon you're studying. This transparency will enhance the credibility of your research.

Robust Method for Link Identification:

Provide a detailed account of how you identify and establish the link between smartphone-related content and violent acts within the news articles. If you're utilizing content analysis, explain the specific criteria or keywords you're searching for in the text. Detail how you ensure consistency and objectivity in this process, and discuss any inter-rater reliability measures undertaken to validate the linkages.

Comprehensive Discussion and Conclusion:

Expand the discussion and conclusion sections to include strategies for managing smartphone usage to mitigate the potential for violent behavior. Address the challenges that individuals, society, and policymakers might face in implementing these strategies. This practical dimension will offer readers insights into the real-world implications of your findings and suggestions.

By addressing these points, your article will not only strengthen its content but also contribute significantly to the existing body of knowledge on the link between smartphone addiction and violent behaviors. Thanks.
