I read that research carefully

Also, I read the reviewer comments and the author's reply

The research paper is an observational retrospective study including small numbers of patients, its only weak point

However, it gives us scope and recommendations in a part of healthcare service in low-cost areas

It showed us how physicians can deal with other options if AVF could not be performed

It showed us a comparison in femoral and other access as a simple route for hemolysis

Finally, it is recommended that AVF be considered as an option

And a clear plan to be established

So, I accept that research as it is well established and constructed

It is simple, however, clear and resolves concern that is already present

I accept that research to be published

Thanks very much
