

Open Peer Review on Qeios

Liquid-Based Cytology

National Cancer Institute

Source

National Cancer Institute. Liquid-Based Cytology. NCI Thesaurus. Code C99177.

A method of preparing cervical samples for examination in the laboratory. A sample is collected using a spatula or brush and then the collected cells are transferred into a preservative liquid. The cells are then rinsed and applied to a slide for examination by a cytologist.