

Review of: "Russian Military Renaissance: An Unnecessary War"

Karolina Cynk

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The topic discussed by the Author is important and current but the article requires significant corrections.

The article is theoretical. Unfortunately, the Author used journalistic rather than scientific language. For this reason there is a risk of subjectivity.

In the introduction the Author should explain how (according to which method/theory) he develops his considerations. He should also present research questions and explain the concept of "military renaissance".

It is necessary to modify the structure of the article (theoretical part with reference to other authors dealing with a similar topic and part with the argumentations of the Author himself). The article needs to be more detailed.

Author must presented accurate arguments for the revival of Russian political ambitions. For this purpose he should refer to the professional literature.