

Review of: "Evaluation of Expenditure Control Measures on State Spending in Nigeria: An Empirical Approach with Internal Auditors of Ministries, Departments, and Agencies"

Norma Angélica Pedraza Melo¹

¹ Universidad Autónoma de Tamaulipas

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Art. Named: Evaluation of State Expenditure Control Measures in Nigeria: An Empirical Approach with Internal Auditors of Ministries, Departments and Agencies

Dense speech in its writing. Redundancy of ideas, words, or phrases repeated in the same paragraph with small text is observed.

It is necessary to improve the writing style; it is necessary to make a synthesis. Observe the proper use of capital letters, spelling, and capture of information.

It is necessary to properly focus the mixed approach of the study; the isolated discourse is presented, so it is important to link and integrate the results to explain the phenomenon from the mixed paradigm.

There is no discourse of results with methodological rigor. The work requires substantial improvements. More current references to support the assertions of the speech. Consistency in the parenthetical reference system.

Present the operationalization of questionnaire variables in section 3.3.1. Integrate the population and sample sections in a single section since the topics in the discourse are very fragmented when they can be integrated in a single section.

The figures of the exposed models must be related to the discourse of results and must not appear isolated.