

Review of: "“Saving the Forest” with a REDD+ Project: Socio-Ecological Repercussions on Indigenous People in Cambodia"

Joanne Millar¹

¹ Charles Sturt University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The article reads like an opinion piece rather than a research article. If this is the aim and is acceptable to Qeios, then okay. However, if the aim is to present research findings, there needs to be data presented in the form of interviewee narratives and quotes. The author has only summarised issues, and it is difficult to tell how much is the author's opinion and what information is derived from the interviews. There also needs to be more information on what the REDD+ projects actually delivered and how, including some benefits.