Thank you for asking me to review, the rating I gave is from my academic perspective only.

The topic is interesting and important for academia and industry. However, it is an opinion article based on the author's professional experience and reflection on it, which could be interesting for a professional magazine, a book chapter, or for the author's personal blog. My review is only for the academic relevance of the article and the way it is written and structured does not fall within the scope of an academic article. Thus, the validity of the article depends on where the author intends to publish.
