Potential competing interests: this review has no conflict of interest for me as a reviewer.

The abstract is well written.

It is better that the search strategy is written completely, comprehensively, and categorized.

Considering that the title fully describes the research related to leishmaniasis, it is better that the search strategy is fully described, starting from identification, prevention, and treatment, and categorized.

In Table 1, one column should be considered for the internet link of each article.

The discussion was very good, but it can be better.

At the end of the discussion, it is necessary to point out the weaknesses, limitations, and shortcomings observed in this study.
