

Review of: "Measuring the Effectiveness of Internship Programs in Aligning Education with Industry: A Comprehensive Analysis of Internship Outcomes in the College of Communication and Media During COVID-19"

Josefina C. Santana¹

¹ Universidad Panamericana

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

I found the article and topic interesting and worth developing further. The paper lacks organization, and some sentences appear disconnected from the previous ideas; for example, the second sentence of the abstract, as well as others throughout the text.

The authors stress that the article is qualitative, but results presented are quantified. If qualitative data were collected, the article could benefit from offering examples of participant comments. These would provide evidence of the authors' interpretation.

A discussion section is lacking. Including this would help the reader situate the study within the body of existing literature and better understand the findings.