No references in the intro part. This has to be more comprehensive if this is to be a full blown review paper. Else, this will only suffice for a short communication.

Many of the points made seem to be repetitive and there is nothing original in the article regarding the points raised. I mean, there are countless other articles today available that speak almost the same aspect. A detailed plagiarism check need to be done for the paper as some of the lines seem to have appeared in other papers.

More detailed literature survey need to be done and so also a detailed stats analysis of the survey need to be done with regression analysis and P-factor and all the associated stats value. Also, pi-chart diagrams would also help.
