Here's a revised statement for your article:

"The topic presents valuable insights but requires enhanced clarity in written presentation, particularly with integrated data analysis utilizing charts and diagrams. Moreover, it necessitates a robust correlation between livestock rearing practices and the sustainable utilization of natural resources, crucial in light of Maharashtra's prevalent water crisis. The article should incorporate a detailed methodology, explicitly stating the sourcing of legitimate data and outlining the procedure employed to calculate the coefficients of variation presented in Table 4. Furthermore, it is imperative to address the potentially concerning assertion regarding the proposition of enhancing animal productivity by replacing native breeds with improved animals."
