

Review of: "Prevalence of Buruli Ulcer Among Residents in Jasikan Municipality: A Cross-Sectional Study"

Ahmed Helmy¹

¹ American University in Cairo

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

I would like to thank you for asking me to review this important research it is very hard and very good.

Your study design is cross sectional how come when it is a questionnaire & why? the inclusion and exclusion criteria is not clear and how did you come out with this small number 56! Is this reliable in your conclusion.

Important information are missing in your study e.g disease classification.

In the analysis of your data too many variables need more clarification and focus on your objective to get a constructive information to support your message.

The study is a very good and hard work of data collection and addressing a national health problem but, the statistical analysis and the information produced with such small number does not give enough strength to support your conclusion

If the editorial board receive a satisfactory answer to my comments I would recommend publishing it.

Sent from my iPad