

Review of: "Hydroxyapatite coating techniques for Titanium Dental Implants — an overview"

Mian Chen

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This paper reviews hydroxyapatite coating techniques for titanium dental implants, generally speaking, the paper is well organized, the objective is clear and the literatures refers are authority. However, it still have some problems needs to be clarify before publication.

1. The drawbacks of each techniques should be present and the differences of application conditions among those techniques also should be clarified
2. Authors just present the techniques from literatures but not present the idea of themself such as the comparison of each techniques and the techniques' development direction, etc.