I found this manuscript interesting, but there are some things that need to be added to make it more complete and scientific. Some of the things that need to be added include:

1. In the introduction, the position of the research is not strong enough. Strengthen it with the apparatus related to what a comfortable environment is like, and maybe studies from other countries that have the same regional characteristics will become literature studies. Then the urgency of this research needs to be emphasized, especially its motivation and contribution to the future.
2. Research objectives should be put together in the last paragraph of the introduction. So that it will be more pleasant to read.
3. In the methodology section, it is better to explain in more detail the data used; for example, from the FGD data, it should be explained who participated in it. The analysis method should also be explained if using qualitative analysis (of course with clear references). This will help other researchers develop this research.
4. The literature review should provide an explanation of important things related to the findings of the analysis. For example, related to various interventions that will be applied This will be very interesting.
5. Results and discussion, in my opinion, are good enough, but it would be more interesting if the various interventions were compared with other studies that have been applied in other countries (effectiveness and efficiency). So it will be more comprehensive.
