Notes on the article:

- Must be added the population and the number of respondents in abstract. P.1
- Obtaining data for economic performance indicators represented in broad monetary policy, narrow money and inflation is uneven over the years. P.2
- The references in empirical literature are old and must be updated within a maximum of 5 years. Are there no recent studies of the relationships between monetary policy and Financial innovations? P.3
- Consider writing the analysis of the practical application tables after each table
- Research references must be reviewed, updated and documented according to APA method. P.13
- Recommendations should be written that are linked to the results of the research
