

Review of: "A memory dependent analysis on permeation of non-Gaussian laser pulse through human skin"

Anna Korczak¹

¹ Silesian University of Technology

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

In my opinion this is skillfully composed article that delves into a topic of great importance. However, I would improve some details in this work:

- add literature references in Chapter 5;
- unclear what value was taken for L_0 in the numerical examples;
- this is a 1D example, once the symbol x is used, once z is used for the geometric coordinate;
- for the designation of temperature the symbol T should be used (more intuitive);
- axes of graphs should be labeled with units;
- values taken for calculations are presented in SI units, while unitless calculations are performed, it is confusing.