

Review of: "A Case Study on Industry-Institute-Cooperation"

Suraj Kumar Mukti<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> National Institute of Technology Raipur

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The case is well-described and convincing. It describes the institution's many efforts to promote education and progress in its speciality areas. The knowledge gained via the collaboration of industry and academic institutions will be useful to the audience.

1. The methodology and findings of the study need to be extensively redone.
2. The conclusion is inadequately structured, the explanations are presented independently, and it does not address the purpose of the study.
3. It is unclear what the literature review is about and how it relates to the study, and it is inconsistent with the methodology outlined in the abstract.