The article contains a systematic review of the local obstacles in the implementation of the United Nations (UN) Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) and highlights the strengths and weaknesses with a view to refocusing on the Federal Republic of Nigeria's efforts. It is well organised and presents an important issue such as the SDGs, where all UN member states aim to achieve a more sustainable future by 2030. Hence, the article is an excellent read and a great resource for people working in the related field.
