

Peer Review

Review of: "How Far from the Edge Does a Population Need to Be to Survive? A Probability Model"

Anurag Sau¹

1. HIFMB, Carl von Ossietzky Universität Oldenburg, Germany

This work is excellent and demonstrates a practical application in a real-world context. I appreciate the authors' efforts and how effectively they applied their methodology. I find this paper to be quite impressive; however, it is somewhat brief. I suggest expanding on this work further to provide additional insights.

Declarations

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.