This study has several strengths, including clear research questions and a well-structured and organized presentation of research findings. However, below mentioned areas could be improved.

- 1- The title highlights women's business performance in promoting sustainable development, however, findings reveal relationship between number of factors with women's business performance. Therefore, the title could be modified to relate objectives of the study.
- 2- The problem statement can be strengthened with the support of statistical data and with support of literature clearly identifying gaps.
