

Review of: "Attitude towards business activity risk: evidence using logit models for two groups of OECD countries"

Ahmad Azmy¹

¹ Universitas Paramadina Mulya

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This article has a high level of relevance. This article can be continued in a different context so that it can be analyzed with specific problem substance. The background is explained in more detail and is very comprehensive. The substance of the problem is explained clearly and supported by theoretical adequacy. Business activities can be carried out with several risks and strong evidence. The author uses a logit model and groups the OECD from various countries.