I have reviewed your paper, and I would like to commend you on the quality of your work. It is indeed a well-written document. However, there are a couple of points that I believe warrant attention for potential rectification or addition:

1. I recommend specifying the details of the type of thermocouple used in your research for the sake of clarity and precision.
2. It might be beneficial to consider rephrasing the sentence that reads, "contourf in matplotlib using 500 levels with our data," for improved clarity and comprehension.
