The authors' attempt is appreciated as the topic is interesting, but the research is not well done. I propose some suggestions for authors to improve their work:

1. it is important the presentation of the work, your article has a lot of lack of homogeneity, for example in the citation in the text or in the references, you should take this into account for the future.
2. The introduction is not good, it must comply with the minimum for an introduction of academic works, such as motivation, justification, objectives, methods, results and originality of the work.
3. Literature review does not justify the choice of the topic.
4. the research questions are not clear (I don't see that they are important either). Please review other research papers that use similar methodology and see how to improve this part.
5. the results are not analysed (the discussion is missing), nor are there any conclusions from the authors and the implications.
