

Review of: "Negativity, zeros and extreme values of several polynomials"

Aklilu Zeleke¹

¹ Michigan State University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The results in this article are correct. However, there is no motivation or why these polynomials are interesting to investigate. Without motivation or connection to why the results will be significant, what is presented reduces to a textbook problem in calculus. Better organization in writing will make it more readable.