

Open Peer Review on Qeios

Congenital eyelid retraction

INSERM

Source

INSERM. (1999). Orphanet: an online rare disease and orphan drug data base. Congenital eyelid retraction. ORPHA:99176

Congenital eyelid retraction is a very rare kinetic eyelid anomaly that can affect the upper or lower eyelid, presents at birth, that in some cases can result in corneal exposure, and that may be associated with accessory levator muscle slips.