The article is well written and organized. It be published in its current form.

Suggestions:

- (1) The authors can restructure the abstract. It is too long.
- (2) The authors can also reduce the number of keywords to 4 or 5.
- (3) At tilte should be provided for this section "The 20th century revealed the two-way relationship between man himself and the natural habitat and the importance of technology in this relationship. Bidirectionality man-environment shows us that the technique that in past centuries had served essentially to protect us in nature and to ensure the survival of the human species,"
- (4) The last section should be rename to just "conclusion".
