

Review of: "Medical Profession in Nigeria Since 1960"

Tahir Jameel<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> King Abdul Aziz University

Potential competing interests: There are no potential competing interests to declare.

The author has chosen a very good topic. Written in very literary way and pointed out most of the factors involved in the unsatisfying state of health administration in Nigeria. Previously published literature has been cited very successfully.

There are certain points which need to be emphasized.

1. The language is very harsh. It doesn't go well with the scientific writing. Rather it seems an article in a newspaper or the bundle of allegations by a political figure.
2. Whenever, we write regarding a controversial topic, then it's the requirement of professional ethics that the viewpoint of both the sides be mentioned.
3. Malpractices in medical profession are not uncommon throughout the world but whenever one points any problem, its solution is also mentioned.
4. One doesn't find any positive suggestions for the betterment of ill health system in Nigeria.

To my point of view, article needs to be rewritten in soft language, presenting the views of both the sides with a section on suggestions to improve the situation.