I am grateful for the opportunity to read the paper entitled "A Bibliometric Review of CSR in China Based on CNKI Database: 2006-2022". The authors have done an excelente job in exploring the research trends in this field in China in terms of CSR research literature. The paper effectively highlights the relevance of investigating the social responsibility of suppliers. The methods are appropriate. In conclusion, I highly recommend this article to anyone interested in understanding the relevance of the CSR. The author provides a thought-provoking analysis and offers insights and recommendations for researchers and practioners.
