Review of: "Adoption of Technology Acceptance and Interfaces for Academic Information System Applications"

It is an interesting piece of research. The topic is well known, and many studies in the field were done before.

However, there are a few comments. First, the authors used abbreviations in the abstract. This is confusing for new readers in this field, such as PU and PEoU.

Second, there is a typing mistake in the first paragraph of the introduction; SIA should be AIS.

It would be better to share the data to validate your model.

A weak literature review is provided; try to enhance this section.
