

Review of: "Towards a model-based approach: applications to historical demography and palaeodemography"

Giuseppina Albano<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> University of Salerno

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The paper essentially reviews several models of historical demography. However, it lacks scientific rigor, but rather seems like a speech on the topics of model-based approach, explained to non-experts. The bibliography is well-constructed.

The paper is well written though several parts are repeated several times and the novelty is not explicitly presented.