

Review of: "Neutronic Chain Reactions for Polonium-210 Production"

Younes El Bassem

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This paper is really impressive. It's written in a way that's easy to understand, even if the topic is complicated. The research is well-done and well-documented, using strong methods and data analysis. The paper reveals new and important findings that help fill a gap in our knowledge. The conclusions are well-backed by the results, and some practical ideas are given for future studies.