

Review of: "Study of four families of the suborder Brachycera (Insecta: Diptera)"

Belen Cava<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Universidad Nacional de Salta

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The paper is easy to read, well-organized, and very clear. Furthermore, it presents an extensive literature review. As a contribution, I suggest the following:

In the introduction, the reasons for studying these four specific families could be explained. Although this information is later specified in the conclusion, it would be beneficial to address it initially.

Regarding the "selected manuscripts," it would be helpful to elaborate on the criteria used for their selection.

I consider the changes made to the initial version to be timely and highly contributory.