The article is of great scientific interest. The author has, through a diachronic approach, shown how Beninese public agricultural policies have demonstrated their limitations since independence to the present day. The methodology is based on a simple literature review, without a field survey. However, we can regret the fact that certain authors cited in the text do not appear in the bibliography. For example, Durkheim (2011); Otsuka (2013), Zimmerman et al. (2009); etc.
