This research is interesting to be developed in modeling. I provide input: 1. Abstract conveys objectives, problems, theories, methods, results and recommendations, 2. Introduction: State the importance of the research, previous researchers, novelty, and points of research objectives, 3. Research methods need to be stated strongly, provide citations from statisticians testing test data, 4. Discussion and findings: please describe according to research objectives, 5. Research results can be conveyed in character development criteria. For example as follows: starting to look, growing, entrenched. Add an paragraph supporting the findings of other people's research (quote) or finding new research results (mention), and provide the last paragraph with your recommendations.
