

Review of: "Recognition Ambiguity! Kenya's Foreign Policy Towards Afghanistan, Iraq, Iran, Israel, And Palestine Under Moi Era (1978-1990)"

Shaherzad Ahmadi<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> University of Saint Thomas (MN)

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This is a bit outside my field (I don't work on Kenya or foreign policy per se; this also reads to me a bit more political science than history, and I am a historian, so I'm not sure about the methodological approach). That said, I do think there is some value to this article. It needs to be restructured, grammatical errors require correction, and the introduction (before the analysis begins) can be much abridged. That said, if there is indeed no study of this type of foreign policy engagement by Kenya, then there is scholarly value to this examination.

Revisions would be necessary and a reconsideration after the revisions to ensure that the piece is ready for publication.