

Review of: "Evaluation of the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on nurses"

Qu Shen

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This article aims to investigate the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on the professional activities and lives of nurses and their compliance with infection control measures during health care delivery is still very interesting. Overall, however, there is not a very adequate explanation of why the study was conducted in the preamble section, and not much relevant research is presented. The design of the study was too simple, the reliability and validity of the scale was not assured, the presentation of the results was also rather simple, and the statistical analysis was not furthered with some multifactorial analysis. The discussion section is not in-depth enough.