The paper examines an interesting point: the energy transition in Sweden and India. Climate change is a hot topic and deserves attention from researchers. However, this paper has some problems:

- 1) The abstract is too long. It needs to be summarized in at most 200 words.
- 2) Why do the authors study Sweden and India? The choice of these countries has to have a better justification
- 3) the authors do not cite other works to help to advance the argument
- 4) a good publication needs to provide data to the readers: what are the levels of CO2 emissions in these countries?

What about the green investment?

- 5) this paper is incomplete. It seems only a preliminary draft of a future study
