

Review of: "Women In Slum Risking Their Safety To Access And Usage Of Basic Water And Sanitation Facilities"

Hedia Bellali¹

¹ Faculty of Medecine of Tunis

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The paper is a littérature review that focused on the safety of women in slums in accessing sanitation facilities and the various factors that affect their safety while accessing or using them.

The topic is relevant and very useful for public health and decision makers.

This narrative review followed the PRISMA guidelines. The title is concise, clear and convey what has been done. The abstract summarize the scope, the objective and the results. Methods are appropriate, detailed and clearly presented, results and discussion are sufficient to support the conclusion.

However, some spelling mistakes should be adressed, for examlpe « The paper focused on ... », you are reporting what you have done in the past.