An interesting, clear, and easy-to-read article. However, I would suggest the following:

- Abbreviations should be written in full when first used.

Methodology:

- Was the questionnaire self-administered or interviewer-administered?
- The sample size of 400 was determined, and 385 questionnaires were useful for analysis. The attrition rate was 3.3%. I believe 5% should have been added to the sample size to account for the attrition rate.
- The study didn't specify the number of selected distributions the company researched.

Discussion

- More can be done in the discussion aspect. Comparing the different factors with other studies.
